Grey Highlands Launches Social Media Sites

As part of our ongoing commitment to improve communication, Grey Highlands is pleased to announce the launch of three new social media sites.

"We are actively reaching out to our residents to get their advice and input on projects and issues that affect them and their community," said Mayor Paul McQueen. "By harnessing the power of social media, we have more tools to accomplish this task."

Connectgreyhighlands.ca is a new public engagement site that allows the public to provide input through surveys, polls and forums.

A Municipal Facebook page and Twitter account were also launched this week. Information will be posted to keep the public up to date on what's happening throughout Grey Highlands.

You can now subscribe to the latest municipal news and updates through the following sites:
